4-H'ers show interest in 5-county fair

By FRANK H. SWEET
Extension Agent

Pam Moore was recently elected as "Big Chief" of the East Central District 4-H All Stars. Pam, an ex-4-H'er from Appomattox, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James C. Moore. Congratulations to Pam.

4-H'ers interested in signing up for the Model Rocket Workshop on August 13 and 14 should call the Extension Office (352-8244) by Friday, August 1, at the latest. Rocket materials will be ordered on Friday. Cost for the workshop materials will be $3.25.

* * *

Each year we get a few calls for the West Virginia State Fair Catalog. We have a few of these on hand if you would like one.

* * *

Several 4-H'ers have shown an interest in exhibiting vegetables in the Five County Fair. An excellent guide to selecting vegetables and preparing them for exhibit is a booklet called "Exhibiting Vegetables in Virginia." We have copies if you would like one.

* * *

It will soon be time to begin judging the wildlife feed patches planted this past spring. Eight 4-H'ers signed up to plant the feed patches. Awards for this program are provided by the Pamplin Ruritan Club.

* * *

We made a mistake in last week's column. We announced that the 4-H Dog Training projects were available from our office. Upon checking, we found that the dog training projects had not arrived. We will continue to try to obtain these materials.
